FRATERNITIES TODAY

ACADEMICS
The greek community consistently maintains a higher GPA than non-Greek undergraduates. Fraternities provide their members with programs such as study hours, major mentoring and tutoring.

ATHLETICS
Fraternities compete against each other in fraternity-only leagues in intramural sports but also compete against other groups, particularly in the playoffs. Most of the time, the competition is fierce, but more importantly, it is always fun and a great way to relieve stress.

COSTS
New students are often worried about the monetary costs of a fraternity. This is something you should discuss with each fraternity individually. Many times it is possible that joining a fraternity can lower overall costs throughout the course of your college tenure.

FRIENDSHIP
College represents an opportunity to make friends that you will have for the rest of your life. Whether or not you join, the Georgia Tech IFC community offers you an awesome opportunity to make new friends, both freshmen and upperclassmen, through the experience of Rush Week.

HAZING PREVENTION
Every fraternity has outlawed hazing in any form. In the state of Georgia, hazing is a criminal offense. IFC and the Georgia Tech administration are unconditionally opposed to any situation created to produce ental and/or physical discomfort, embarrassment, harassment or ridicule.

LEADERSHIP
Fraternities offer both internal leadership opportunities because they themselves need strong leaders, but also external leadership opportunities. Greek men and women represent the vast majority of campus leadership positions. As such, Greek Life can sometimes be a springboard for other involvement opportunities on campus.

PHILANTHROPY
The fraternal values of our community leads us to many philanthropic and service endeavors within the Georgia Tech and Atlanta Community. Fraternities provide a great outlet to continue or build a passion for serving others and making a difference in the world.

SOCIAL
During the week of Rush, all fraternity houses and events are required to be free from any alcohol and IFC patrols each chapter to ensure compliance with this rule. If you do join, you can look forward to a rewarding social life integrated with the culture and traditions of the Institute. IFC fraternity parties are regulated by clear and reasonable policies that keep our communities safe.
ABOUT THE IFC

What is the IFC?

The Interfraternity Council (IFC) at Georgia Tech leads and directs the 30 member fraternities on campus. Each of the thirty chapters represented are members of the North-American Interfraternity Conference (NIC), an national governing body. The Interfraternity Council promotes the interests of fraternities in general, and insures cooperation among the different fraternities on campus.

The members of these 30 fraternities make up the IFC and represent the largest population of students within the Georgia Tech Greek Community by a substantial margin. These men from from all across the country and globe to study at Georgia Tech, and have found the fraternity experience a welcome complement to their academics. For more information please visit fraternity.gatech.edu!

What is the Rush?

Rush is a weeklong opportunity to learn about the Georgia Tech community and meet many of your fellow classmates. You might already know you want to join a fraternity. You might have never even considered joining a fraternity, and that’s OK.

Rush begins with a kickoff event in Ferst Theater, after which you will have the opportunity to meet all of the chapters at a tabling event. After this, and for each night afterwards, you are free to walk around and visit each of the chapters individually. This is time for you to get to know the brothers of each chapter, and you are free to spend as much time as you like at each chapter location and visit as many chapters as you like. Most chapters will be serving dinner, and you can expect casual conversation and chapter-specific activities to give you a chance to meet the brothers and vice versa.

Of course, with 30 chapters, there is a lot of variety in the Greek community at Georgia Tech. When you find a fraternity you like, and that fraternity likes you, you might receive a bid (an invitation to join their brotherhood).
26% of the male student body is affiliated with a fraternity at Georgia Tech!

THINGS TO CONSIDER BEFORE RUSH

RECRUITMENT EVENTS
If you are in or near the Atlanta area this summer, you may be invited to formal recruitment events by fraternities. This is a great way to get a head start on Rush Week and start getting to know some fraternity men. We encourage all potential new members to meet multiple fraternities before making a final decision. Please note that it is strictly against the IFC bylaws for these events to have alcohol or illegal substances in any way.

REQUIRED REGISTRATION
You are required to register for Rush Week online at fraternity.gatech.edu. It is completely free and it can only help you by giving fraternities a way to learn more about you and potentially contact you. There is no obligation to participate after you have registered, but it is a great way to get information and updates about the process.

RUSH TIPS
1. Keep an open mind. Many people end up joining a fraternity when they did not plan on it before they came to college. Rush is a great opportunity to see if joining a fraternity is a good fit for you.

2. Be yourself. Each fraternity wants to get to know the real you. Don’t feel overwhelmed if they ask you a lot of questions. They want to get to know you as much as you want to know them.

3. Do your homework. Check out fraternity.gatech.edu, this guide and individual chapter websites. Being prepared for Rush will help you get the most out of the week.

4. Don’t get discouraged. There are 30 IFC fraternity chapters. If you haven’t found one that you like, keep looking. You do not have to make a decision this week or even this semester.

5. Dress up! Rush is a mostly informal process, however it never hurts to dress a little better than gym shorts and a T-shirt. A collared shirt with khakis or jeans goes a long way.

6. Use the narrow-down approach. First, select 10-15 chapters through research and the Kickoff tabling event. Then, visit between 5-10 chapters during the first couple of days of rush. In the third or fourth day, invest more time with the chapters you really connect with. This will help you narrow down your choices for the last few days.

FAQs

How does the bid process work?

A bid is an official invitation to join a fraternity as an associate member. A fraternity can give a bid at any time of the year according to their policy. Chapters will generally give a bid if they feel you could be a good fit for their organization. You may receive bids from many fraternities and then decide where you feel best. Do not feel pressured into accepting the first bid you receive! You don't have to accept a bid if you don't feel a particular fraternity is right for you, and you do not need to accept a bid right away (even if you plan on accepting later).

What if I don't have time?

While you are expected to become involved and participate in events with the fraternity, they realize that you are also adjusting to college life. If anything, a fraternity will help teach you valuable time management and study skills to adjust to life at Tech. Fraternity members can offer you help with your classes and will make sure you are studying to get the grades equivalent to your abilities. After investing time and effort into you as a new member, the fraternity is committed to helping you succeed.

Do I have to become a brother if I accept a bid?

No! The new member process is a time for you to get to know a fraternity and for them to get to know you more. Both have options of ending the new member period at any time if the fit is no longer working out. New member periods vary in length, but are generally two to three months long. During that time, you will learn the history of the fraternity, bond with the brothers and other new members, and participate in service projects, intramurals, socials, date nights, mixers, and other aspects of fraternity life.
FAQs cont.

What if I can't afford it?

It is important for you to make sure you can fulfill the financial obligations of new member process and being a member. However, being in a fraternity is usually cheaper than living on campus after your first year. Chapter presidents and treasurers are also willing to work out payment options for members. Talk to the fraternities you are interested in about how their dues work and how it can work into your budget.

Will I get hazed?

No! If a fraternity new member process involves hazing, chapters face serious consequences for hazing new members or brothers. IFC and the Georgia Tech administration have developed strict guidelines to make sure new member process is as safe as possible.

What should I wear to Rush?

Rush is very informal, so wear whatever you feel comfortable with. Most chapters will be dressed in business casual—a collard shirt and khakis—but you aren’t expected to wear anything in particular.

WHAT MAKES SAE UNIQUE

One of the oldest chapters on Georgia Tech’s campus, the Georgia Phi Chapter of Sigma Alpha Epsilon was founded in 1890 and still continues to hold itself to the highest of standards. We believe that being truly successful in college, not to mention after graduation, requires a BALANCE between academics, leadership, athletics, and gentlemanly conduct. Our chapter prides itself on being strong in all four areas, which makes us the one-of-a-kind organization that we are.

We guide ourselves by two principles: one is The True Gentleman, our creed which states how a gentleman should conduct himself towards others. This can be seen through our strong Philanthropy and Service through organizations such as Atlanta Mission’s Homeless Shelters, Trees Atlanta, Habitat for Humanity, and Children’s Miracle Network. The other is the principle that once you are an SAE, you are an SAE for life. This is clearly shown by having the largest national alumni presence among all fraternities, our connection with the Atlanta Area SAE Alumni Association, and ties to famous Georgia Phi alumni such as the golfer Bobby Jones and former mayor of Atlanta Ivan Allen, Jr. Many of our brothers make valuable business contacts among the several thousand alumni active in the area that often lead to internships and career leads.

In addition, we continue to maintain one of the strongest social calendars and closest brotherhoods on campus. This is evidenced by yearly trips to destinations such as New Orleans, Gulf Shores, and Beech Mountain and social events featuring artists such as DRAM, JID, Two Friends, and the Zac Brown Band among others. As a fraternity, we aim to truly make the most of every aspect of the college experience.

WHAT MAKES SIGMA CHI UNIQUE

At Sigma Chi, we strive not only to live up to the ideals of friendship, justice, and learning, but we also seek to be leaders in the Georgia Tech community. We pride ourselves in being well-rounded and maintaining a strong academic and social life balance. This is evident in our chapter GPA that has been ranked in the top 3 fraternities the past 4 years while also consistently competing for intramural championships and having a vibrant social atmosphere. Each year during our philanthropy week, known as Derby Days, we host several activities and competitions to raise money for the Huntsmen Cancer Foundation and the fight against cancer. We have very involved alumni and the Beta Psi foundation provides scholarships for brothers who exhibit strong academic performance and community involvement. We greatly value social events and believe that they are crucial aspect of the Greek Life community. Weekly date nights, gameday tailgates on the front lawn, band parties, and Sweetheart Formal are a few of the social highlights.
WHAT MAKES SIGMA NU UNIQUE

The brotherhood of Sigma Nu is composed of a group of driven, young men who love to have a good time. Everyone understands that there are times to sit down and get your work done or study for that test; however, Sigma Nu is the best place to be if you are looking for a perfect balance between school, work, and social life. At any given time, whether you want to relax in the chapter room and watch sports, sit out by the pool, or play basketball, there will always be another brother who will tag along.
